Rod and Gun Members Vote to Launch Huge Program

of Conservation

A move to launch the greatest conservation program ever planned for Northern Illinois got under way last night with the election of officers for the Antioch Rod and Gun Club, and the consideration of plans to increase the initial membership of 100 to 1500, the initial membership of 100 to 1500, including practically all sportsmen WEBB STILL IN

retary and treasurer. Dr. Deering, contacting leading sportsmen of the region during the last several weeks, declares that they unanimously agree that there is urgent and immediate need for steps to be taken to preserve the wild hie of the area and to make regular stocking of Webb, critically injured in the autolakes and streams with fish. Mysterious Slayings of Scott LeVoy, Daughter-in-law, Millburn, Investigated

The possibility that Scott LeVoy, 65, shot his son's wile, May, while despondent over marital differences between his son and daughter-in-law, and then killed himself is being considered by Lake county authorities as the most plausible explanation for the tragedy which took place at the LeVoy farm on Route 45 carly Tuesday mornin. $13,500,000,000 of Your Money It is estimated that this government-federal, state and national-will levy taxes to the tune of $13,500,-000,000 this year.

Just one-ninth of that sum will be raised through income taxes. The gigantic balance will be raised through indirect taxes which represent part of the cost of a pair of shoes, a ticket to a show, rent, groceries and every necessity and luxury of life.

The great bulk of indirect taxes are paid by persons of small and moderate means. A man with a thousand dollars a year eats as much as a man with fifty thousand. And the hidden tax burden is obviously of infinitely greater importance to him.

Here is the answer to those who think the tax problem, is a wealthy man's problem, which doesn't touch the poor. There isn't a man, woman or child in this country who doesn't pay taxes and heavy taxes, to boot. And the worst sufferer from extravagant government is that ordinary citizen who thinks he is tax-free because he pays no direct levies. * * * * *

A Strong Ship

One hundred and fifty-one years have passed since, on September 17, 1787, the Constitution of the United States was adopted and signed and its framers came to the end of many weary weeks of wrangling.

The statesmen who had gathered from the 13 original colonies to write it could turn their horses' heads homeward. They were not satisfied. There had been times during the convention when it had looked as though they never would get a constitution of any kind completed at all, what with jealousies, dissenting opin- the house for debris. Litter in the basement, rickety ions and violent colonial rivalries.

Their final results were achieved only through endless compremise, debate, hesitation and thought. . When the Constitution-makers left Philadelphia to go back to the states, that had yet to place their stamp of approval upon the finished draft by ratifying it, they did not know how good a job they had done.

But they had done a good one. It has been good enugh to last through more than a century and a half of freedom, through stresses and strains of all sorts.

The Constitution of the United States was no outgrowth of peaceful, placid times. Its principles are the outgrowth of the hard experiences of colonial days, of the bitterness of war and the upheaval of war's altermath. It was built to serve a nation through the hard times. And perhaps that is why it has endured.

This week, throughout the United States, we are observing Constitution Week. On Saturday we will pay honor to the forethought of those men whose work lives on in a nation greater than they may even have dreamed of; to the wisdom of Benjamin Franklin and the noble character of George Washington.

We today are still beset on every side by problems and hardships, in spite of our boasted modern luxuries; by perplexing political situations, jealousies, dissenting opinions, personal ambitions and violent rivalries. We cannot quite sit down to enjoy at ease the hard-won fruits of earlier generations' labor. The "Ship of State". is a strong one. And it is up to us to keep it so. * * * * *

Jobs or Relief

Farmers in New York State are complaining to reief officers that crops are rotting in the fields because hands cannot be found willing to give up relief and go to work. One farmer even went to the expense of "importing" several hands from Virginia, only to have most of them "desert" when they discovered that relief checks could be bad for asking and without doing a lick of work.

Certainly such relief-seeking job-shirkers are to be condemned, but it is unreasonable to say the blame is entirely theirs. Rather, the blame lles in a relief system that discourages initiative and promotes a vast army of public charges willing to remain unemployed as long as they are being fed and John Taxpayer pays the check. Under such a system there is no need for anyone (John Taxpayer excepted, of course) to work. One simply remains unemployed and continues to get all the benefits without doing any of the work. * * * * *

Prevent Winter Fires Now

Now is the time to get ready for winter comfort, while the heating plant is out of service... Many a December fire has been prevented in September.

Your furnace should be thoroughly examined by an expert, cleaned, and necessary repairs made. Flues, chimneys and fireplaces should be given similar attention. All this work should be done in a first-class mannershort-cuts don't pay,

Another excellent plan is go on a still hunt through furniture you stored away in the attic and lorgot-greasy rags and waste in the garage- accumulations of junk in drawers and cupboards-get rid of it now. Such accumulations are fire's best breeding places.

Next inspect lamps, electric cords and other equipment which is used little this time of year. They will have to carry their heaviest loads during the winter months-and any defect may result in a disastrous fire. And again, call in an expert-it's cheapest in the long run. Amateur electrical repairs are often worse than no repairs at all.

When this work is finished, you'll have a more comfortable home as well as a safer home. It's no sport to have your heating plant break down when you need it most-because of neglect and inattention. And no one enjoys awakening in the middle of the night to hear the crackle of unchecked fire.

In brief-do your winter fire preventing now!

Woodchuck Equipped to Do Good Job of Gnawing The short-tailed, rugged-bodied woodchuck is a rodent or gnawing mammal which has broad, chisellike front teath in both the upper and lower jaw, writes Walter J. Schoonmaker in a Naw York Zoological Socloty bulletin. When full grown it is usually more than 20 and less than 25 inches from the nose to the end of the tail bone and the vertebrae in the tail are five to six inches long.

Generally, the back is grizzly gray, varied with chestnut, black and yellow; the scantily haired belly and the legs are quite red or rufescent and the tail and feet are usually dark brown or nearly black. This typical color, however, is subject to a great deal of variation and may range from black to white. The melanistic color phase is quite common, but the albino individual with pink eyes is rare because the mother may kill and eat the striking and offcolor offspring soon after birth. The woodchuck is a child of the sun. Seldom does it appear before sunrise and usually it retires befora dusk, although on rare occaaions it may be found abroad at night. It readily climbs trees and it swims with case, although it is not as agile as its long-tailed cousin the squirrel, nor as aquatic as Its more distant relative, the beaver, It is an accomplished digger, however, and finds a home and safety in the bosom of Mother Earth. Its burrow measures about seven inches in diameter and may be from three to twenty-four feet or more in length. Two entrances to the den are usual. One is prominent, with a mound of earth before it, while the second, the air hole or lookout, is often quite concealed and no loose earth is near it. The nest is located in a chamber in the burrow and is composed of dry grass.

Hand of Dead King-Saint,

Stephen, on Exhibition One of the world's few historically authentic holy relics is the miraculously preserved right hand of Hungary's king-saint, Stephen, who died 900 years ago. Each year on St. Stephen's day the holy right hand is paraded through the streets of Buda, the older half of the Magyar twin-city on the Danube, in a procession that is generally regarded as Europe's most gorgeous and impressive annual pageant event, according to a correspondent in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Black and White

For all practical purposes white and black are colors, but technically they are not. White is a combination of all colors, and black, the absence of color. Colors are produced by the difference in the length of light waves. We see the longer waves as red, those a little shorter as orange, and so on. The shortest light waves visible eppear to the eye na violet. A red object is one which absorbs all the light waves except the red ones; they are reflected back to the eye and produce the color called red. An orange-colored object is one which absorbs all the light waves except the orange ones; they are reflected back to the eye and produce the color called orange, and so on. White consists of light waves of all lengths-of all wave lengths mixed together. A white object is one which reflects all or nearly all the light waves; and a black object is one that absorbs all or nearly all the light waves.

The Game of Bridge Under the name of "Britch," bridge was played in Constantinople in the seventies of the last century. From there it spread graduelly to surely among the favorites of the Cairo, the Riviera, London and New York. Everywhere it went it ousted its parent game, whiat. "HIPPO" IS ONE OF NATURE'S ANTIQUES

Huge Beast Is Only Living Relic of Stone Age.

Washington, D. C.-Birth of nine-pound baby hippopotamus at the National Zoological park in Washington, and the hope that the tiny infant will survive, focuses attention on one of the queerest wild creatures in captivity. The newly. arrived hippo is a pygmy, and if It reaches maturity will, like its mother, weigh only about 450 pounds. This contrasts with a weight of 4,800 to 6,000 pounds for the ordinary adult hippopotamus.

"Growing as rare as the vanishing American buffalo, that vanishing African, the hippopotamus, receives protection from several governments of middle and southern Africa," says the Notional Geo-graphic society. "Wardens help the hippo escape the native steak platters. Left to himself, the cumbersome creature is about as dangerous as a grand piano.

"In spite of his successful zoo career as a very-wild-beast behind bars, the hipporis only a barnyard brute at heart-in short, a pig. Halfpig at least, says the scientist, considering the short legs, four-toed foot, rasping grunt, rooting muzzle and tusks. Pig-and-a-half, observes the layman with a measuring eye, For this super-parker is outranked for sheer bulk by the elephant alone among land animals. Parking space for a standard model hippo would need to be about 14 feet long. The average hippo's hide, two inches thick, is draped around three tons of animal.

"Horse of the River."

"'River swine' was the ancient Egyptians' name for him. A visiting Greek three centuries B. C. dubbed him horse of the river, and the Greek for that phrase-hippopotamus-became his title, a name as unwieldly as his frame.

"This nightmare of a pig has a spongy skin with a network of fine creases. It is a rich hue of rare beefsteak, shoding into blue-gray and dappied with chocolate. His face is shaped like a violon-cellogabled at the top with a pair of alert eyes and gnarled at either end of the nose ridge with knobs of eyes and nostrils. Stubby legs and short flattened tail are dwarfed by his

"One of his odder features is the bloody sweat,' a reddish oil which pours from the hippo's pores under stress of pain or excitement.

"This greatest of hogs is one of nature's antiques, a living relie of the Stone age. It may be the only big brute left which retains its face and figure from the days when prehistoric savages of southeastern spears at it along the banks of the hippo once roamed through Europe and even India. His four-toed feet have beat a slow, thunderous retreat before advancing civilization to the dank heart of Africa, which is now the bewildered hippo's inst stand; He lurks among the reedy margins of lakes and rivers from the latitude of Timbuktu south to the latitude of Durhan, already growing noticeably scarce around the edges of the continent,

"By day the hippo hides his homely face in shady marshes or gallops along river bottoms with whalcilke excursions to the surface to spout for air every five or ten minutes. No matter how cumbersome on land, he dives and swims with Olymple skill.

No Dainty Appetite.

Rosicrucianism, System of Mystical Philosophy

Rosicrucianism, (ro-zi-kroo-shanizm), is a system of mystical and metaphysical philosophy intended to guide the development of the inner consciousness. Popularly believed to have begun in Cassel, Germany, early in the Seventeenth century, notes a writer in the Indianapolis News, it has been revealed that the fraternity had existed long prior to what was only a revival in Germany. In 1607, Figulus, a mythical writer, referred in a pamphlet to the existence of the traternity in Europe in 1410, 'An officer of the fraternity states that in 1413 the greatest' revivals of activity occurred. Another officer mentions one Friesan or Friesau as national imperator of the fraternity in 1468. Cornelius Agrippa mentions tha foundation of a branch in 1507, and that Brother Philalathes was "invested with the power of imperator." In a letter from the French Doctor Landalf to Agrippa, he states that he knew the fraternity in 1509. Paracelsus records his admission into a rosicrucian lodge in Basie, in 1530. Heinrich Khunrath, German rosicrucian officer and author, pubilshed (1598) 'a book dealing with the secret principles, and an internotional congress of resierucians was held in England in 1604.

Many ancient rosierucian documents preserved in a rare collection in Cologne bear evidence that the organization was old even in the Sixteenth century. One book in the collection, by Brother "Omnis Noriar," refers to a German rosicrucian lodge in 1115, while Arnold de Villanova, rosicruelan officer, speaks in his. "Rosary" of the fraternity existing in 1230.

The name of the organization is derived from its original symbol, the cross with a single red rose in the center.

Where Guillotine Serves

in Decapitating Poultry Areaded streets, medieval fountains, gates and towers, plus a location in a peninsula above the river Aore, with the Alps glistening in the distance, combine to make the Swiss capital into a picture town. Berne was founded by Duke Berthold V of Zahringen in 1101 A. D., and although it is government headquarters, meeting place of diplomats and a modern intellectual center, it guards its ancient traditions and landmarks with jealous pride, writes a correspondent in the New York World-Telegram.

Market days have retained their old-time importance and prove an opportunity for citizens and pensants to meet regularly on a friendly basis. Reminiscent of the era when Berne's prestige depended much on the aristocracy who lived within its walls, such as the Von Erlach, Von Diesbach, Von Frisching and Von Wattenwyl families, is the Junkerngasse, street of the patricians, whose old-fashioned yet distinguished residences command in front a far-sweeping view of the winding Aare and the regai Alps.

At the entrance to the thoroughfare rises the noble Gothic cathedral of St. Vincent, and in its very shadow, on Tuesdays and Fridays, convenes the poultry market. Shrill protests and cries are heard quite often while this mart is in session, and they emanate from an object of horror-a small-sized but efficiently functioning guillotine, with an executioner in crimson cap in attendance. Here chickens have to give up their lives for Bernese dinners, doctors. Often simple inflammations may be stopped by its use. The danger, of course, lies in diagnosis. The inflammation may be complex, not simple. If hot appllmilk and squeal for more. An adult cations do not give ease and relief can stow away in his ten feet of shortly, take the eyes to the doctor, Water for this usage should be only hot enough to help, not hot peck of apples, 15 loaves of bread, enough to burn. The application is to be made to the tightly closed-"Short legs make him stumble so and kept tightly closed—eye. Under is to increase the circulation in and that is what the person involved wants.

> Early Mator Cycle The earliest known attempt at a two-wheeled vehicle which would proceed under its own power is said to have been made by W. W. Austin of Winthrop, Mass., in 1868. It was propelled by a coal-burning steam engine. Other more or less similar affairs followed in 1884 and 1886. In 1895 a cycle propelled by a comhustion engine using gasoline was exhibited at Madison Square Garden in New York city. This has been called the first appearance of the motor cycle.

Life of Toads, Frogs Toads and frogs may live for a number of years if they manage to escape their natural enemies and remain in a suitable environment. There is a well authenticated case of a toad which lived for 36 years and was accidentally killed. The commen frog sometimes requires from four to five years to mature in Journal reports. Feathers are used extensively in millinery and for usual in a natural state would probably live at least ten or 12 years.

This virtually dazed the robber, who stood holding the gun and looking as if he didn't know whether to leave or stay. This only increased Miss Gagnon's courage and she continued:

"What you need's a job. I'pl get the boss. Come on. I won't sny a word about this."

Obediently he followed her from the office into the laundry and right up to the owner, Ahraham Morad. "Mr. Morad, this man tried to hold me up," said Miss Gagnon.

Owner's Turn to Be Astounded, It was Morad's turn to be astounded. As he looked at the man and saw the gun, which the bandit was now trying to hide under his cont, the gunman said:

"She's right, but I didn't rob her. She didn't have anything. I couldn't go through with it. She could see I need a job."

"Don't you know the consequences, don't you know you could go to prison?" asked the girl. "Sure," said the robber. "Here, take this gun before I get into trouble. I'm sorry I tried it. I haven't leaten for two days."

"why don't you get on the WPA7" | "O, there's too much red tape, and besides I'm a Republican." But the prolonged conversation was annoying him. He was beginning to get fearful. The laundry workers were edging close and listening. With sudden determination he dashed for the door and escaped.

Her first one-woman strike was in the automobile of her husband, a Detroit factory worker, which Constable Alfred D. For hours the constable, with seval assistants, attempted to eject money and a handbag containing her from the locked automobile, parked at her home. When all other efforts failed the constable called a wrecking car, which towed the automobile and its passenger to a garage. There one door was pried open and, as the constable described it later, Mrs. Hodisk was pried off the steering wheel. The siege ended, Mrs. Hodiak was taken in a police car to her home. Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston Director, Business Training International Correspondence

THERE are four interrelated sub-Liects which any person should study before he attempts to engage in any form of merchandising business for himself. These are, marketing, business finance, accounting and business law. The man who plans to start a small manufacturing concern should also be a student of production. The ability to interpret financial statements is as important to the business executive as to the accountant. The day has passed when even the smallest business can be operof the information they contain,

Of the great number of men who go lato business for themselves each year, only a few meet with sufficient success to enable them to contiaue to operate. Statisticians have estimated that from 80 to 90 per cent of all small husinesses ultimately fail. The principal cause of failure is lack of business knewledge. Many small enterprises are started when a cursory study of the market available would show that there was no possibility of sufficient sales being obtained regularly to meet operating expenses, let aleae to pay laterest on the money invested and to yield the ewner a profit. Many businesses that have the possibility of success fall because their owners have insufficient understanding of business principles and methods.

The direct aim of the business man is to make a profit out of which to support himself and his dependents and to lay aside savings in as large an amount as possible to constitute a competence for his old age. This desire to make money by cagaging in husiness for one's self is typically American and perfectly legitimate, but cannot be faifilled today without study of all the important aspects of business.

The Adventure of Friendshia.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Cost of Belog o Friend.

clous possession any mon or woman has (apart from his fellowship with love of his own family) is friend-ship. It is the flower that blooms by the side of the rugged pathway the Wisconein Dalls over the Labor by the side of the rugged pathway the Wisconsin Dells over the Labor of life. Like many flowers, some Day holiday.
friendships need to be cultivated Alian Hamlin spent last week in

It has been said that the love of a man for another woman is a beautiful thing, the love of a man for a woman an even more devoted and precious thing, but that the bond of love between man and man surpasses oll in its strength and glory. Some might question such a statement, and yet it is true that between man and man there is hetween man and man there is the possibility of the highest type of friendship. David and Jonathan stand of the head of an inspiring with their whole souls. The lesson for today calls for a the life of Jonethan and David re- last Saturday and Sunday with his eareful reading of the incidents in 19, and 20, as well as the first chapter of II Samuel. It is a story which will richly reward a coreful read- Minn, and Superior, Wis., where they ing. Considering the printed portion will visit relatives for a week or tea in the light of this background we days. note six things that characterized this great friendship.

Friendships must be "kept in repair." Foolish and olmost wicked is that man who by boorisity offending his fellowmen, or by neglecting the thoughtful words and leave a le neglecting the thoughtful words and day, 10:8, 0, where he urges the righteous Read what Jonathan did in I Sam. 18:3-5, only one of his many loving and thoughtful acts.

11. Courteons (v. 8). David asked that Jonathan deal kindly with him, and the entire story reveals that he did just that, always. Mora friendships are courtesies than in olmost any other morning for Miami, Florida, where

We live in an age which affects an outward veneer of culture but which is at heart often thoughtless and unkind. Let Christian men and women be courtenus. They should be as followers of the gentle Jesus, and it will bring them countiess friends, kind that delights in telling an unpleasant truth, but one which speaks the truth in love. Jonathan told David the truth. IV. Courageous (vv. 12, 13). Jonathan was such a faithful son that when the time of parting came he stoyed with his wicked father rother than go with David, whom he loved. But he was true to David even though he knew it would incur-the wrath of his lather if that friendship become known.

Things that cost us nothing are usually "worth it." Real friendship calls for socrifice, standing by in the night hours, sharing hurdens, loyal even though others may condemn us for it.

V. Covenant Keeping (vv. 16; 17). Covenants entered into by solemn treaties in our time are soon discarded as "scraps of paper." People make promises to one another that they never intend to fulfill. Jonathan and David made, n covenant and kept it. True friends do not violate their loving agreements.

This matter of trickery and talse hood in life and business is one that deeply troubles the writer of these notes. He sees unmistakable evidence that this perverse spirit has come into the precincts of the church itself. We should have a revival of honesty in office, home, state, and church.

VI. Complete (v. 17).
"Ho loved him os he loved his own soul"—such a friend was Jon-athen. His devotion to David had no qualifying "strings" on it. He was not seeking something for himself. The closest he came to that was to bring his children into the covenant with David (v. 15), and who could question the propriety of such devotion between true friends? He saw that David was to supplont Saul as king, and in the face of his own interest as Saul's san, he put David forward. Friendship is akin to our relationship to God in that it calls for a complete giving of ourselves, if we are to be true friends. This does not mean that individuality is lost, or special interests and abilities destroyed, but it does mean a wholesouled desire for our friend's welfare, and a complete devotion of our all to his good.

Be strong and of a good courage"

FRIHPOUGH the pregress of buman invention, modes of living have become increasingly luxurious, and today the average person enjeys many comferts that were unbeard of a few generallens age. While being grateful fer every pregressive step that tessens drudgery and reduces hardship, we need to watch jest the enjoyment of material cemferts renders us unfit to face difficulties. One need only look around him at the state of human affairs la many countries, to realize that humanity has a great reed for moral ceurage teday. There is a vast difference between genulne courage and a stolcar submission without complaint to wrong conditions which are believed to be unaveldable. . . . True courage or fearlesances balengs by right of spiritual inheritance to all the children of God. Di-vine Love is an inexhaustible fountain of geed, from which one can draw an endless supply of courage, pallence, endurance, tolerance, and lenderness, whenever, it is necessary to use these qualities. The spiritual strength supplied by emalpotent Love can be realized and preved in our daily experience. in encouraging Joshua and the children of Israel, who were soon to pass over Jerdan lo take possession of the land of premise, their great lcader, Moses, said (Deuteronomy 31:6), "Be strong and of a good ceurage, fear not, per be afraid ... for the Lord thy Ged, he It is that doth go with thee; he will not fall thee, nor forsake thee." How eften we need to be reminded of this spiritual fact, when approaching some new and untried experience, or when fear and discouragement try to robus of the fruit of our laboral It is our certainty of divine Love's everpresent ability to pretect and guide which endows us with courage and spiritual endurance.

"But hew can such certainly be gained," asks one, "when on every side there seem to be danger and discord?". E "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy says (p. 228): "There is no power apart from God, Omnipolence has all power sedd to coknowle olence bas all-power, and to acknewledge any other pewer le te dishener Ged." This spiritual fact, when undersloed and applied, enables us to face any difficulty, and teaches us bow to selve our problems.

Discouragement is a mental rtate produced by helleving that there is a power opposed to God, and that this power, named devil or evil, can frustrate God, good. Perhaps we may be listening to arguments of evit which seem to whisper, "You are sick; you are poor, lonely, miserable, unwanted." And the mere we listed, the louder these arguments seem to talk, until we become mesmerized by them and self-pity clouds on mental borizon. Even a glimpse of apiritual reality will aid in breaking such mesmerlsm. How ellen n thought of gralitude destroys the gleom et discouragement, fer grati-tude is an acknowled ment of the reality of good, if we continue to be grateful, we shall find that other spiritual restoratives "will come to our aid, and we shall regain our courage; for it is not a personal characteristic, but a spiritual quality to be claimed and utilized by each

Mrs. Eddy also writes (ibid., p. the tribe of Juda, the king of the mental realm. Free and fearless the roams in the forest. Undisturbed it lies in the epen field, or rests in green pastures. 'green pastures, . . . beside the still walers." Meral courage is free and fearless because it is inspired by the understanding of spiritual reality.

It is undisturbed, whether in the forest, in the open field, or "beside the still waters" of peace and contentment. This spiritual courage proceeds from trust in the inficite ability of God to guide and guard His children, and frem's deeper understanding of the obedience which acknewledges His will as supreme,

The scientific revelation of creation, as given in the first chapter of Genesis, declares Ged to be the enly creator, and preclaims the inspired truth regarding man, the image and likeness of God, divine Mind, name-ly, that he is endowed with dominion "over all the earth" (Genesis 1:26).
Our demenstration of these spiritual truths depends on the measure of our obedience to the First Commandment (Exedus 20:3), "Thou shall have no other gods before me," which is the basis of moral and spiritual law. The understanding and demonstration of this spiritual requirement overcomes fear, discouragement, and impatience, and brings us late our herlinge of spiritual do-minion.—The Christian Science Mont-

HELLO EVERYBODY:
Frank V. Hann of Hackensack, N. J., is with us today, to tell us the story of the shortest sea voyage he ever made. It's a yarn that proves that all sea-going thrillers don't happen out on the ocean where the waves run high and the wind screams through the rigging. For this particular trip ended in adventure -and terrible tragedy-before the ship was out of the harbor.

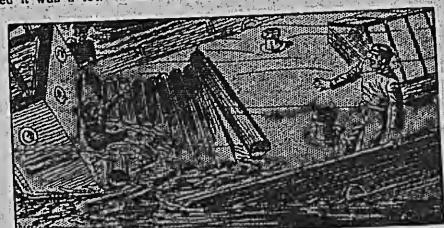

It was at Halifax, on October 28, 1029, that the cruise started. Frank was first mate of the steamer "Larking," which was due to sail that night. It was a dark, cloudy day, and the loading gang was working at a fast pace to finish while it was still light.

There were only a few cases left to come aboard, when word came from the company agent that the two carloads of iron pipe had to be leaded. The holds were full, and the only available space for that pipe was on the open deck, but orders were orders and the pipe had to come

The pipe arrived and the gang started loading it on the after deck. That pipe was to give Frank Hann the most terrible moments of his life.

It Was a Bad Night for Navigation. The ship finally got under way, but darkness shut down just as they cleared the dock. A drizzling rain had started to fall, and visibility was poor. Traffic in the channel seemed to be unusually heavy that night, and navigation on these dark, murky waters was dangerous. Whisties or tugs and harbor craft were blowing on all sides. Lights were hard to distinguish through the rain. But the "Larking" get along all right until it was almost clear of the harbor limits.

Then, suddenly, the officer on watch spied a small light directly ahead. He called Captain Williams attention to it and the captain, after studying it for several seconds, made out a dark mass on the water, decided it was a tow bost. He gave an order to alter the ship's course slightly to port. The ship's whistics were blown to signal the tug. The captain figured—and rightly—that he would clear the tug by thus altering his course, but a minute later—too late—the men on the bridge saw a number of mud scows being towed along behind the tug, and the ships headed straight for themi-

The captain ordered, "full speed astern," but that helped mighty little. Before the momentum of the ship could be checked they struck the bawser between the first and second scows. The second scow swung around against the side of the ship, and there was an omineus grinding, and a ripping of steel plates.

Big Hole Below the Water Line.

"For a moment," Frank says, "we were all stunned. Captain Williams shouted to me: 'Get' below, Mr. Hann, and see how badly we've been hit and how much water we're taking.' I dashed down the ladder and came back to report a big hole in the side below the water line, with the water coming in like Niggara. the water coming in like Niagara. Even as I was speaking the ship began to list. Captain Williams seized the tube and called down to the engineer, 'Have the men draw the fires and all report on deck at once!'"

Nothing in the world would save that ship. The boats were lowered and the crew clambered in. Frank and the captain were just about to get in themselves, when the captain remembered his papers and went back to get them. The ships after deck was almost level with the water by that time. Her bow was already under. And then a terrible thing happened.

"The captain had just come out of the pilet house," says
Frank, "and elambered down the ladder to the deek, when suddenly the ship gave a slekening lurch, and Williams was thrown against the deck house. And then, as in a nightmare, I saw the iron pipe which had been stowed on the after deck shift with the movement of the ship.

Captain Williams' Terrible Plight.

"I saw Williams pinned to the deck house up to his knees by tons ef iron pipe. His legs must have been broken instantly, for his eyes almost started out of their sockets. His cries rent the air as the chief engineer and I started toward him. The bow of the ship was under water, and moments were precious now. In desperation, we tried to move seme of the heavy pieces of iron, but our efforts were pathetic.

The sweat was pouring off our faces, and our lungs almost burst under the strain. Our task was hopeless, and to make matters worse, the water was already creeping up to our shoes. We knew we could never move that pipe in time, so we abendoned this effort and made a hysterical move that pipe in time, so we apendoned this effort and made a hysterical attempt to drag Williams—who weighed two hundred pounds—clear efforthe pipe that was crushing his legs. We took hold of his arms and tried to pull him losse by sheer force."

Then followed a scene that Frank will never forget. Tears were streaming down Capiain Williams' face, and his cries were terrible to hear. "My God," he mouned, "why did you have to do this to me?" And then he began shricking over and over again, "Get me loose get me loose! I den't want to die!"

Says Frank: "I had never witnessed such terror in my life. He was half out of his mind by this time. Suddenly he clutched each of us by an arm, with all the fearful strength of a man bereft of his senses. We were standing higher than he was, but his grip was terrific. I knew he was doomed, and if we could not break away we were doomed with he was doomed, and if we could not break away we were doomed with him. Already the water had passed our knees and was working up to our waistlines. Still we tried, with ebbing strength, to break away from him. But it was no use.

The water was up to their chests now. The ship would go under any moment. The water began covering the Captain's face. Still he hung on. It seemed an interminable time before his grip relaxed. Then Frank and the engineer, their strength almost gone, turned and swam to the

Antioch Couple Are Married In Woodstock

Miss Thelma Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cunningham, became the bride of Chester of Kilpatrick, also of Antioch, in a ceremony performed last Thursday in Woodstock by Judge Grant Nolen. Attending the couple were Miss Barbara Marek and Maynard Hogan.

The quartet took every precaution to keep the wedding a secret, nevertheless when they emerged from the C., R. Holms residence following the ceremony they found their car decoratcd with all the contraptions usually associated with newlyweds. The party proceeded to Antioch where a reception was held for 25 guests.

After a vacation trip to Missouri, where they will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Cunningham, the couple will go to housekeeping on Lake street.

Mr. Kilpatrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank-Kilpatrick of Solon Mills. For the past two years he has been employed in the Antioch store of the A & P company,

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

Someone has said that competiit may put zest lato trade, advertislag is the power that continues to turn the wheels.

Every retail place of business la bound to advertise and the advertising will be good or bad, according to the way it is done. A clean store, a neat sign, attractive window display, courteous clarks, actisfied customera, all are forms of advertislog. The little fellow on the side street may at least fellew these torms of advertising. But prograselve merchants leng ago realized that only a small propertion of their prospective customers could be reached by these methods alone. We should still he hack in the horse and huggy days if the art of advertising had not made known automobiles, airplanes, air conditioping and other new products and explained the merits of goods and quoted them at advantageous prices.

One wonders it the average customer realizes why advertising must; be, and what it does. It isn't without reason that the large department store employs up to fifty people on its advertising staff.

Thousands of sales can be made through advertising. Sales make possible lower prices and probably improvement in goods. . . .

Calvin Coolidge once wrote this: "A great pewer, has been placed in the hands of those who direct the advertisiog policies of our coun-try, and power is always coupled with respensibilities. No occupation is charged with greater obligations than that which partakes of the na-ture of education. Those engaged in that effort are changing the fread of human thought. They are mould. ing the human mind. These who write upon that tablet write for all eternity. There can be no permanent basis for advertising except a representation of the exact truth. Whenever decoption, falsehood and fraud creep in they undermine the whola structure. Thay damage tha whole art."

"Curiosity Killed the Cat" The saying "Curiosity killed the cat" is believed to be a corruption of the older saying "Care killed the cat." It is one of the sayings perpetualed more by sound than sense. A proverb known in England and Scotland from time immemorial says that a cat has nine lives, yet care will wear them out. "Hang serrow, care will kill a cat," occurs in "Christmas," a poem written by George Wither, who dled in 1067. The same line is nttribuled to Ben Johnson, John Taylor and others, This proverb probably referred orlg. inally to the fact that cats are frequently so pelted and pampered that they sicken and die. However, cats are not usually thought of se being especially curious. Why "Care killed the cal" was changed to "Curiosity killed the cat" is a puzzling questien. One writer says a plausible explanation of this change is found in the fact that one of the figurative senses of "cst" is "a human being who scratches like a Roger B. Tancy (1777-1864) was cat, particularly a spileful or backblting woman.".
